INDIGENOUS

Northwest Indigenous Advancement of Cultural Entrepreneurship (NW-IACE)

Formerly known as: Northwest Aboriginal Canadian Entrepreneurs

PROGRAM PARTNERS:

What is the NW-IACE Program?

NW-IACE is the right program designed to provide you with the skills to start a business, allowing you full economic participation as an Indigenous Business owner plugging in to the many exciting projects under way in our traditional territories.

It is the right time for this program as the number of projects in the North has never been greater, and corporations doing business on our lands are engaging with Aboriginal owned businesses in the development and operational phases of their projects. This is also an exciting time because your Nation and Development Corporations have joined the program to assist in your entrepreneurial journey.

The right partners are TRICORP, University of Victoria's Gustavson School of Business, and your Development Corporations each bringing unique expertise in teaching and mentoring people like you on how to start and run a successful business.

The NW-IACE Program provides:

- Practical hands-on entrepreneurship training;
- The ability to see the world around you in a different way;
- Tools from which you can learn to identify new business opportunities;
- A supportive learning environment guided by a team of university instructors, business coaches, mentors and your fellow community members.
- No tuition fee. All materials and supplies are included. Each student is also provided a laptop computer.
